net-files Data Room for Optimal Property Transactions and Asset Management

Burghausen, 7th February 2013 – The net-files data room addresses the increasing demand for highly secure yet user-friendly platforms for engaging in commercial property transactions and asset management. In particular, net-files Dataroom offers sellers and potential buyers distinct advantages during property purchases and ensuing due diligence, by making it quick and easy to prepare and present documents for the transaction, and by making sure that access to these documents is safe and protected. Detailed access rights ensure that confidential documents can only be seen by users with the appropriate rights. The net-files data room can be implemented immediately, without extensive configuration or training, and without any help from your IT department. All you need to access the data room is a web browser.

In addition, net-files offers many advantages for the management of property and property funds. The clear, structured presentation of even large amounts of documentation allows for quick access to whatever document is required at all stages of a property transaction. The consistency and currentness of the data accessed is also guaranteed at all times.

The most up-to-date software, encryption and security technologies ensure that all documents in the net-files data room are reliably protected against data loss and unauthorized access.

The net-files data room can be tested free of charge and without commitment for 14 days: see www.net-files.com.
