netfiles data room now with video conferencing function netfiles GmbH expands the feature set of its data room solutions to include privacy-compliant online meetings and screen sharing Burghausen, April 20, 2021 – netfiles GmbH, one of the leading providers of virtual data rooms, enhances its netfiles Professional, Deal Room and Enterprise product lines with a video conferencing feature. netfiles users can now conduct secure and privacy-compliant online meetings in the data room without additional software or plugins. The video conferencing feature is available at no additional cost.

netfiles video conferencing complies to the same strict security and privacy requirements as the netfiles virtual data room itself. All data is processed exclusively in secure, certified data centers in Germany.

"During the current pandemic, virtual collaboration has become increasingly important. More and more employees are working from home and exchange information on projects and tasks in online meetings. In due diligence processes, sellers and prospective buyers often only come together virtually before a transaction is completed. With the video conferencing function, netfiles addresses this development. We are enabling customers to conduct online meetings with the high security standards of the netfiles data room and meeting the strict data protection requirements of European companies," explains Thomas Krempl, Managing Director of netfiles GmbH.
