New version of the netfiles data room available

netfiles data room offers optimal support for mobile devices

Burghausen, June 23, 2020 – netfiles GmbH, one of the leading providers of virtual data rooms in Germany, is now offering customers a new version of the netfiles data room.

The development of the new version of the netfiles data room focused on performance optimization, adaptation to the latest web technologies and support of mobile devices through "responsive web design". The new netfiles data room can now be used very conveniently also on tablet computers for example the Apple iPad, and smartphones. The installation of an app is not necessary, a web browser on the mobile device is sufficient. In addition to the iPad app already offered, netfiles thus optimally supports access and work in the virtual data room while on the move.

Thomas Krempl, managing director of netfiles GmbH, comments on the presentation of the new netfiles version: "Our business world is becoming more and more mobile and flexible. Stationary workstations and associated desktop computers are becoming increasingly less important. Today, project teams work regularly in changing, different locations. The manager of today is mobile, more and more often on the road and increasingly uses mobile devices in his daily work. At the same time, the requirements with regard to data security, data protection and compliance are increasing. With the new netfiles data room, we provide our customers with optimal support in their mobile working environment and offer the highest level of security for accessing data and exchanging data across locations and companies."
